Catsifier

The catsifier, aka the pillow with nipples is working!

At first he didnt take to it. When i showed it to him, he bit one of the nipples and just moved on. But I kept moving him to the pillow everytime he tried to suck on my ears, and finally he just started sucking on the pillow! Unfortunately he will still try my ears first. But now instead of fighting him off for hours while i try to sleep, I just have to give him the pillow and every once in a while he'll try my ears again after being on the pillow for a couple minutes. But the pillow does the trick, and he falls asleep after about 20 min. I'm hoping that eventually he will stop trying to go for my ears.

Kitten

Agent Tail Cooper is doing quite well.

However, he is still doing the suckling thing on my ears. I've been trying to find ways to get him to stop. Basically from about 5:30am until I get up, I fight him off me. It hit me the other day that maybe I could give him a pacifier. So I started looking online to see if anyone makes a cat pacifier. And sure enough they do!

I decided to go with the Catsifier

Its just a pillow with nipples!

Fedex dropped it off this morning as I was leaving for work. I couldnt wait to open it, and see if it works. I wasnt very patient because I was running late, but the first thing he did was bite one of the nipples. He didnt start sucking on in, but I think its because he was in play mode. I really hope he takes to it. I'm really getting sleep deprived.
